A FEW WORDS FROM THE DEVELOPER

Greetings, NES enthusiast!

Welcome to the fourth, and largest, game I have done to date. This project started in October of 2008 and after a lengthy couple of months, I'm happy to bring you this new game for the NES.

Inspired from the indie game I Wanna Be the Guy, as well as several other platformers, I bring you what is now known as "Battle Kid: Fortress of Peril".

It was my first attempt at programming a platform game, but proved to be an interesting and fun learning experience. I can only hope to make more games after this and build upon what I have learned.

Thanks for your purchase of this cart and enjoy the game.

THE STORY

At DischCorp, workplace of Dr. Tina Byers, she had been working in her lab and was monitoring an unusually strange increase of activity on an island which houses an ancient fortress known as Il'Akab. This fortress was had been abandoned a long time ago, though the wizards who built and dwelled there were infamous for designing it to be deadly to those who would dare intrude.

After a bit of effort, she was able to intercept a transmission from the island that spoke of a Supermech being built by a group of unknowns. This terrible weapon would spell certain chaos if used to its full potential. However, the transmission stated that it is still being constructed.

Timmy, a young friend of the doctor, heard the commotion. Dr. Byers informs Timmy of the threat and shows him a special combat suit prototype she had made a while ago. The suit is lightweight, but has great combat potential for those skilled enough to use it.

With this suit, Timmy boards a transport ship and heads to the outskirts of the island. It is up to him to infiltrate the fortress and stop the Supermech from ever seeing the light of day. Does he have what it takes to overcome the perils that lie ahead?

CARTRIDGE INFORMATION

This cartridge includes the Ciclone multi region lock out chip. If your system is blinking but shows video try pressing the reset button. This will tell the Ciclone to try the next region. When the correct region is found it will be saved so this process should only be needed once. If you have hit reset 8 times and it is still blinking your 72 pin connector inside the NES may need to be cleaned or replaced. Blowing on the cart will add condensation that will damage the cart.
